

Truly, Our Mother with tender maternal longing is inviting us to meditate with Her gift of understanding Her Son's Eucharistic Presence: "Behold the servant of the Lord."

Is it not obvious that we are living in a broken, wounded, world with a spiraling, unsatiated thirst for authentic affirming love? So many have sought the endless cul-de-sacs of life where, nothing, no-thing, will truly satisfy the hunger of the human heart.

Here the Handmaid of the Lord is revealing a profound solution to this compelling dilemma. Does not Mary's Heart exhibit the essence of our reason for being? Yes it is true, initially here, Mary is teaching the first lesson that we are to ever deepen our gift of faith through Eucharistic Adoration. Yes, it is also true, we are to deepen our own healing and growth in our transformation into Christ by increasingly, lovingly, receiving Him as our nurturing food on our spiritual journey. Mary now is especially in these times of dissolution and inner despair inviting us in and through Jesus to go forth as His co-workers, as His little companions, to be His living healing monstrances, radiating His Eternal Love unto so Many who thirst and hunger endlessly, yet never comprehending the true origins of their emptiness: their need for eternal union with the Heart of their Divine Creator.

you have been buffeted by the passions of life and truly you are thoroughly dented and tarnished like this vessel. Nonetheless, I love you and freely choose to need and work through you. Yes it is true, even the door to your heart often does not open itself to my inspirations. As only your heart knows, the evident results are that you become empty because you are all too often far from My Presence. Nonetheless, do not turn away for I will never abandon you. For I choose you as my small, broken, discarded Monstrance. Yes, I choose to need you as my Living Monstrance to bringing My Healing Presence to this empty world."

"Will you not draw others like yourself onto this wondrous path, to allow Me to make you all into small, humble, living Monstrances of My Healing, Life and Love. Yes, you are called to increasingly adore Me in this precious Gift; yes, you are called to receive me in the Eucharist for your spiritual Journey. However, you are especially called in the present moment to bring My Healing Presence to a world truly lost, truly broken. So many seek, yet so many do not find. Will you not touch them with My Light, My Truth and My Love? Nothing will ever satisfy the human heart except the love of its Creator for whom it was created. Will you not be then, my little living Monstrance that radiates My Eternal Love and Truth."
